MODEL WORKPLACE HEALTH AND WELLBEING STRATEGY

Introduction

Overview of aim of the strategy (example)
The aim of the strategy is to work with our staff to integrate health and wellbeing into day to day activities to enable us to create a positive and healthy working environment.

Through the strategy we will provide a framework where we can take a proactive and engaging approach to enhancing the health and wellbeing of our staff. This will be achieved through wellbeing initiatives, employee support mechanisms and joint working with staff and their representatives, and local partners to identify and address areas for improvement.

We will work with employees to ensure those issues which may impact negatively on staff health are identified and addressed. We will ensure that managers have the key skills, knowledge and ability to support employees to improve their health and wellbeing. We will also ensure that we increase the awareness of our employees as to what is important in ensuring their own health and wellbeing.

There are a number of effective policies and procedures already in place to support employee health and wellbeing. We will continue to regularly review these to ensure that they support this strategy.

Definition of Health and Wellbeing (Optional whether to include)

Wellbeing means different things to different people at different times, but in theory is made up from two main categories, that of the physical and mental health of an individual. “Health and wellbeing is about being emotionally healthy as well as physically healthy. It is feeling able to cope with normal stresses and living a fulfilled life. It can be affected by things like worries about money, work, your people around you and the environment you live in. Your wellbeing is also affected by whether or not you feel in control of your life, feeling involved with people and communities and feelings of anxiety and isolation”.

(National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE))

Demographic Profile

(The demographic profile of your employees can provide some useful pointers to their health needs and planning of interventions.)

Strategy Delivery

Managers must recognise the impact of good people management on service delivery and have a responsibility for the health and wellbeing of their employees whilst at work. As such it is essential that they are aware of the need to engage in, drive and support this strategy. The delivery of the strategy will be overseen by the Senior Management Team.

Consultation will be undertaken at the relevant Trade Union/ employee forum meetings.

All employees have a responsibility for their own health and wellbeing as well as that of their colleagues and peers.

Human Resources and the Health and Wellbeing Group/ Employee forum group will support the development of health and wellbeing through activities, events and communication.

Key Priorities (examples)

The key priorities identified are as follows:-:

- Ensure the strategy is embedded across the organisation;
- Develop a company health and wellbeing brand;
- Develop a specific section on the intranet site for health and wellbeing;
- Ensure health and wellbeing is incorporated into e-recruitment system;
- Ensure linkages between health and wellbeing and leadership
• Annual audit of PDR process to ensure its effectiveness;
• Ensure coaching and mentoring is embedded across the organisation;
• Staff handbook updated to ensure that health and wellbeing is clearly incorporated;
• Ensure health and wellbeing is emphasised throughout the induction process.
• Commit to the Mindful Employer Charter for Employers which supports positive attitudes towards mental health.

Evaluation

It is important to monitor the evaluation of this strategy. Key performance indicators will be monitored with information regarding sickness and turnover rates being reported to Senior Management Team.

The annual staff survey will also assess the impact of the company’s commitment to Health and Wellbeing on staff morale.

Health and wellbeing initiatives will be monitored to ensure continued effectiveness.
