3. Does your council provide training or education for managers and employees relating to disability awareness and about the process for the implementation of reasonable adjustments for the councils' disabled employees in accordance with the Equality Act 2010?

a. Yes - Please provide details or any documents that you provide to managers and employees.

There are a range of elearning courses that are designed to support managers with employees declaring a disability. We also offer in person training for managing attendance which also addresses the support available to our workforce, encouraging processes such as Access to Work, All about me passport (disability passport).

4. Do your procurement policies require private contracts to demonstrate a commitment to promote disability equality and provide regular reports on how they are achieving this?

If yes – do you also ask which disability employment schemes they have signed up to

Our procurement policies require compliance with the Equality Act 2010 and the Public Sector Equality Duty, which includes promoting disability equality. Equality Impact Assessments are undertaken during procurements, and suppliers are expected to adhere to equality and diversity principles within contract terms. While regular reporting on disability equality is not a blanket requirement for all contracts, monitoring and reporting may be included where relevant to the nature of the service.
