

Historical landfill site

The site was assessed under Part 2A in 2006, and the following info was noted:

The site is currently a children's playground and sports field, and has been for over 40 years. The GIS label details that the site accepted construction waste (approx 9.9k m³) between 1981 and 1989. This was probably used in a cut and fill operation to level the site for sports fields. As the site had previously been used for recreational purposes, it is unlikely that the Local Authority would have imported hazardous waste for site levelling purposes. In addition, the site was investigated for gas emissions in the early 1990s and none were recorded.

It is unlikely that this site would have potentially significant pollutant linkages and it would not be prudent to allocate anymore resources in the assessment of the site.
