Dear Requester,

Re: Request for Information – Freedom of Information Act 2000

I wish to confirm that the council has completed its search for the information which you requested.

The information requested and our findings are as follows: -

Your questions and my findings are as follows:-

I would like to request the following information relating to enforcement action taken against landlords for fire safety breaches in your local authority area:

- The number of fines issued to landlords for breaches of fire safety regulations in residential properties, for each of the past five financial years. Please provide the total number of fines issued per year.

After considering your request I have decided to refuse it under Section 12(1) of the Freedom of Information Act. This is because it is estimated that the time taken to provide the information would exceed the appropriate limit of £450, equivalent to 18 hours of staff time.

Section 12(1) of the Freedom of Information Act is a provision which allows a public authority to refuse to comply with the request for information where the cost of compliance is estimated to exceed a set limit known as the appropriate limit.

Your request would require the analysis of individual cases where a civil penalty has been levied. The case management system currently used by the Safer Communities Service does not allow an automated analysis, so a manual trawl would be required.

- The total monetary value of those fines, broken down by year for the same five-year period.

- A breakdown of the types of fire safety breaches that led to these fines (e.g., missing smoke alarms, blocked fire escapes), for each of the past five financial years. Please provide the number of fines issued for each type of breach per year.
